The Attack on the Quaker Mission in Kunsus.

We see it stated almost daily in the Buchanpapers, that those persons residing quietly Kansas, and minding their own business, are it disturbed or molected by the radiums who the first the borders. This has been related by timerous instances; but, perhaps, there is none more glaring than the attack on the Quak er settlement, made by Butord's men, on the 2 id inst. Here was a Quaker mission, quietly e tablished on the Shawner Reservation, whose a jeer it was to educate and instruct the Inditr any shape or form and have never been identilled with any of the troubles that existed there. Quietly and devotedly they pursued Heir tasks and avocations, effending no oneit terfering with neither side. But this did not setisty Atchison and his hounds. The order was given to rout them from the Territory and our columns yesterday, told how brutally

'Vho is there that doubts, if this Quaker misjund-undisturbed! There is no protection to life, property or innocence, short of total acquiescence and complicity in all the cowardly.
